from FREEDOMVOICE)))®

1 Taking Your PBX to the Cloud Means No Big Ticket Hardware

We manage your call switching and routing remotely using your existing Internet connection. Your phones simply plug into your data network for dial tone, with no additional wiring required. Having your PBX in the cloud with us eliminates that daunting capital expense and maintenance headache of a legacy wall switch or on-premise server.

2 Our Features & Technology Scale with Your Growing Business

As a managed service, your phone firmware is updated automatically and you have immediate access to all new features and functionality we create for the platform. And when adding new phones, or even new locations like remote offices or telecommuters, scaling up your service is about as easy as buying the phones you need and plugging them in.

3 Supporting Our Customers Is Our Highest Priority

Our in-house technical support staff is comprised entirely of highly-trained and motivated networking professionals here in the US – never an overseas representative reading from a script. Beyond that, we maintain a local presence across the country to ensure we can have someone out at your location whenever you need it.

4 Unlimited Calling, Paying Only for the Lines You Use

Some phones on your system will have less activity. Why pay full price for the ones that are idle? Most of our competitors charge per employee, or "seat". We bill based on your maximum simultaneous calls per month (forgiving the occasional spike). This is typically no more than 1/3 of your number of employees, translating to significant savings.

5 Our Flexible Platform Changes to Suit Your Needs

No two businesses have the same phone system requirements, and trying to fit your needs inside a competitor's cookie-cutter solution will cause more problems than it will solve. We own our technology, giving you the flexibility to tell us exactly how you want your service to work and giving us the flexibility to make it happen.
